Restaurants in El Born

Café Kafka

This cosmopolitan and bohemian styled bistro is reminiscent of an upscale literary café in Paris. It is well known for its fish, so much so that they refuse to serve it on a Sunday because they can't get it fresh. Galician oysters, razor clams and hake are just some of what you'll find on the menu. Meat eaters can look forward to crispy duck Wontons, Beef tenderloin and more!

Restaurants in El Born

Llamber Taberna

The owners Fran Heras (chef and gastronomical director who previously worked with Ferrán Adrià at elBulli) and Eva Arbonés (head chef and interior designer) have a restaurant in Asturias and decided to share their culinary cuisine with Catalunya. In this former bodega you can expect tasty dishes such as Tuna teriyaki, Langostinos de trigueros, Arroz negro and plenty more. Great for pica-pica.

Passadis del Pep

Very good seafood restaurant where you don't order, they just keep bringing you dishes and cava (about 8 courses)! From the street you can't see the restaurant, instead look for a bank on the corner of the same building called 'La Caixa' with a yellow logo. You enter through a narrow hallway; the restaurant is in the back.
